CHICAGO, May 9 .- The fellows who composed the baseball schedule didn't know last March that Chicago was going to play one of its weather pranks Pierre Lorillard added Ancke to the when they decided that on this day New York must play Chicago in the latter city, but the game had to be played with a collision with an iceberg at any time. Smith's Gorgeous Socks.

George Smith is the greatest favorite among the Giants to-day, George delights in the wearing of socks that would make a rainbow sink into insignificance. So it was that he was the hottest member in the bunch to-day, and all hands gathered around him to draw a bit of the heat from his halfhose and ward off the transformation to luman icicles.

MORRIS PARK, N. Y., May 9.—The attendance showed quite a falling off at Westchester this afternoon, probably because the card was not up to the mark. There were no stakes to be decided except those that were over-night events dignified by stake apellations.

The weather was all that could be desired, though the high winds precluded fast time. The wind was from the west, otherwise the clouds of dust would have made the people in the grandstand very uncomfortable. The track was fast and betting quite brisk on the first three races.
